PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT IS EMINENT-LY FRIENDLY AND FRANK.

His Good Humor Is Perennial and Pervasive, and Soon Spreads from the Train to the City Crowds.

MORNING ROADSIDE INCIDENT

COMPANIONABLE TALK TO A CROWD AT AN OHIO STATION.

Reception of Visitors at the Hotel-Attitude of the People Toward Their Chief-Subjects of His Speeches.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 20 .- Friendly and frank is the attitude of President Roosevelt on this journey among the people. He is demonstrating in many big and little ways that he wants to become acquainted. At no time is there a loss of dignity, a failure to appreciate the respect due his great office or a tendency to infringe on honest proprieties. But he does want the people to know their President and he certainly wants to be better acquainted as President. In many of the cities where he will stop he has made addresses before this, but not as President. Even the tour he made in the West as Vice President was not particularly impressive, for at that time no one cared particularly what the views of the Vice President might be. Now they are of importance, of far-reaching consequence. The President feels this as a responsibility. He is the chief administrative officer of the greatest republic on earth and wants to be understood by the sovereign citizenship. At the same time he desires to be in just as close sympathy with the people. Assuming this to be one of the responsibilities of his great office there are no halfway measures with the President. He accepts it as a job of work and takes care of it to the best of his ability. His great speech before the Cincinnati business men to-night indicates that he intends to observe his duty in the premises to the letter. He goes a step further in his trust speech than he went at Wheeling or in his New England speeches. It is perhaps not because he has changed his views, or even progressed, but because he is developing the declarations which are being made. The people are thinking about trusts, about the tariff as it is applied to articles made by trusts, about the tariff as it applies to the general conditions of the country, about Cuban reciprocity, about reciprocity in general, about the relation of employes and employers, and he will speak his mind freely on these questions in different places on his Western trip. The expressions will be carefully considered and bear the impress of his solemn and earnest conviction and

It is not in these speeches alone that one cation of the President. In the first place, he is keeping away from the politicians and even officials. He meets them, but does not send for them. When they come it is on the same footing as others. He prefers the cial interest, and in his informal interviews it is to be seen that he is always gathering

A WAYSIDE INCIDENT.

This morning, at a little village in Ohio where the train stopped for water for the engine, the President stepped to the rear platform to take a look. He was in the and children who knew of the coming of stare at the distinguished traveler. Soon President smiled pleasantly and said "Good morning." Some of the boys shouted back a cheery good morning. The President said in a conversational tone that he was glad to see them, and that, while he did not intend to make a speech, for lack of time, he must say that he felt a real glow of pleasure to have persons come to meet him from their ordinary everyday duties.

The staring look quickly left the faces of this increasing throng. All were grinning and gawking as though an old friend had come to see them, and they hardly knew what to say. As the President continued his friendly chatting, soon all were perfectly at home. He made friends with a baby boy which a mother was holding up to see, and assured the mother that as a family man he was pleased to see her there with her hopeful. When he was leaving he said that he would not be responsible for further delaying the breakfasts which were preparing. It was plain that half the women there had left the kitchen to get a glimpse of the President and that half the men were waiting for breakfasts would not be cooked until the President left. The appreciation of the situation was so pat that everybody laughed, and as they dispersed it was to discuss the President of the United States-as though he were one of their kind, knowing all about them. Senator Foraker met the President at the train at the head of the committee, and he has sat by the side of the President the greater part of the day while he was meeting callers. He gave a word of explanation here and there as to who this and that visitor might be. One of the first callers was Dr. J. G. Monfort, ninety-three years of age, who had shaken hands with nineteen Presidents of the United States before he met President Roosevelt. Mr. Roosevelt was very much interested in this, saying that he had at last found a man would could give him most valuable pointers, having become an expert in the judging of Presidents. Another venerable caller was J. G. Schmidlapp, a banker, the most intimate of McKinley's friends in Cincin-nati. Another was Leopold Markbreit, a German editor, who fifty years ago was one of the strongest political supporters of John Serman. He still keeps in touch with polities, but now is so feeble that he has to have assistance in walking. The President saw him coming into the room, and while he did not at the time know who it was, went across the room to give him his arm, and after introductions aided him to a comfortable chair in the corner of the room, where he had a pleasant talk. He left him a number of times to see others, but returned to finish his chat. When the aged German left tears were streaming down his cheek as he expressed his admiration of and confidence in the President.

HEARTFELT RECEPTION. One thing can be said about the reception which the President got here: comes from the heart. The writer mingled with the throngs in the street who waited for hours and hours for the President to pass in a carriage. They feel a deep tenderness and affection for Roosevelt. They look upon him as a man who is to accomplish wonderful things for them. As to this there can be no doubt. Four out of five speak of him as "Teddy." It is "Teddy" is going to do this and that. "Teddy" looks just like his picture, or "Teddy" is going to "soak something," or "make somebody sit up straight," etc. There did not seem to be much politics in the street comments. There were sharp discussions and disputes which one is apt to hear from street crowds on such occasions. The tone was quite familiar. "Teddy" was one of

There were bands and marching clubs, luncheons and dinners, visiting and singing, cheering and listening and all in all a first rate show in Cincinnati to-day. The prevailing characteristic of it all is the bright and jolly cheerfulness of the President. He knows that the people who came to see him are having a holiday. In a sense his five-thousand-miles trip in an excursion. In the temporary White House on the presidential train the good humor of the President pervades from one end to the other. It becomes quickly infectious in the town. The President lets it be known that he does not care for long, set thracite is speeches. He does not mind mingling with was sent a roomful of visitors, but he objects to the fact.

being stood up at one side of the room and hearing a series of addresses delivered as solemnly as though they were affairs of state. The result of this is to put the whole outfit in a merry mood.

hard knocks all levity ceases. At the big banquet to-night at the St. Nicholas Hotel he declared that he did not think a revision of tariff was a proper treatment for the trust evil. He went right home with the proposition by emphatically declaring that two of the largest trusts in the United States—the Standard Oil and the hard coal trutsts-would not be directly affected by the raising or lowering of the tariff, as there were no duties on their products. He said nothing about the general proposition of revising the tariff, but it is assumed that it will be touched on in a later speech. He did just exactly what the men of New York have been urging him not to do when he went further in urging a constitutional amendment for the regulation of the trusts. There can be no doubt that he knows this emphatic and progressive position is most offensive to men interested in the great financial combinations, and he made the assertion just as seriously

MASS MEETING ADDRESSED BY TWO

NOTED LABOR LEADERS.

President of the Miners on the An-Said to Be Increasing.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 .- Ten thousand persons attended an open-air mass meeting in Madison square to-night organized by the Central Federated Union in sympathy for the striking coal miners in Pennsylvania. A corps of young women and men, preceded by a brass band, marched around the square all evening with boxes for contributions to be sent to the aid of the strikers. They were well patronized. John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers, and Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, in their addresses denounced the coal operators in strong terms. Other speakers were Henry George, Herman Robinson, John Fahey, Ernest H. Crosby, Charles F. Adams, John S. Crosby, Benjamin Hanford and Morris Brown.

Resolutions were passed favoring the formation of a political party "opposed to all parties controlled by the capitalistic class." President Mitchell in his address said: "1 fell that I might address you as fellowvictims of the heartless crusade of the coal trust against the American workingman. believe that if the coal trust had known three months ago that in order to crush the miners of the anthracite region it would have to crush the American people, its leaders would not have refused to extend fair treatment to the mine workers. wish to say to the American public that the workers will never return to the mines until they are treated as every American worker should be. The mine owners have sought to confuse the issues involved in this strike. This is a strike for living wages; it is a strike for sufficient wage to enable the people to live. It is a strike to take our little boys and girls out of the mills and send them to school, where they properly belong.

Referring to Mr. Mitchell and his management of the strike, Mr. Gompers said: "John Mitchell, the undaunted leader to whom I take off my hat, has conducted the strike with an honesty and force and dignity that deserves the gratitude of every workingman in the country. In an interview given previous to the Madison Square mass meeting President Mitchell said the miners are still willing to submit their demands to arbitration and to abide by the decision of the arbitrators. COAL OUTPUT INCREASING.

Several Thousand Tons of Anthracite

Shipped by the Reading Company. READING, Pa., Sept. 20 .- The Reading Railroad Company to-day increased its coa. shipments. This morning 140 cars containing over 4,000 tens went down the main line all, of it from the western end of Schuylkill county. Sixty-nine cars of anthracite coal also passed through Reading yesterday for Philadelphia. There are 365 cars of coal of various sizes now in the yard at Cressona, Pa., all of which came from Kalmia washery and Brookside and Good Spring collier-ies in Schuylkill county. Good Spring colliery now has nearly a full complement of ment committees of the two Christian asmen at work and the breaker is working four days a week. The men employed there are all skilled miners, secured from many sections of the coal regions. The breaker at Brookside is being run two days a week, the company having about one-third the number of miners required. This force is being increased from day to day with men gathered from different sections. It is estimated that the Reading Company has about 10,000 tons of coal in the vicinity of Cressona and it is from this stock that the public schools of Philadelphia are to receive their

Nineteen Weeks of Strike. WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 20 .- The nineteenth week of the miners strike ended to-day and still there is no settlement in sight. Disinterested parties now believe the miners' strike history will repeat itself and that the present struggle will go the six months' limit, as the big strike of 1877. At the present time both sides are evidently as determined as ever and all the prophecies as to the duration of the strike having failed the people are settling down to the belief that the battle must be fought to a Trouble in the Schuylkill Region. MAHANOY CITY, Pa., Sept. 20 .- An attempt was made this morning to wreck with dynamite the railroad bridge on the North Mahanoy colliery siding. The report from the explosion was so terrific that it awoke the entire town, but the attempt was not a success. The damage to the bridge can be repaired in half a day. Anthony Ferguson, inside foreman at North Mahanoy colliery, was attacked by the crowd of strikers while on his way to work this morning. He was being roughly treated when a crowd of coal and iron police rushed to his rescue. The mob at first offered some resistance, but when the police fired a volley from their revolvers the strikers fled. Ferguson was able to proceed to the mine. FRESHMAN CLASS THE LARGEST IN THE HISTORY OF THE SCHOOL.

De Pauw's Football Season Begins with 'Varsity-Alumni Game-I. U. Team Getting in Fast Training.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., Sept. 20 .-Wabash College opened the year with prospects of the largest attendance that she has had in several years. The new freshman class promises to be by far the largest in the history of the college. More new men had registered on Monday evening before the formal opening on Tuesday than were registered during the whole of the first week last year.

Manager Allen, of the football team, is very sanguine of a first-class representation this year. The first afternoon of practice found twenty-six candidates anxious since expressed a desire to play. Sutherland, a 200-pound man from Nova Scotia, is relied on to give impetus to the back field. A large number of last year's "W" men are back in training, but the team has only part of its former strong men. Poston, the captain of last year's team, has graduated, Fat King is at the Ohio State University that there is enough new material with experience in football to more than counter-

Twenty-one of last year's juniors are now the stately tread of the senior. Two more are expected next week. The new sopho-more class also showed up well, having lost very few members. Northern Indiana is well represented in the freshman class. Sophomore English has now a class of forty-three, and beginning German has a large class. A strong effort is being made by some of the seniors to secure an advanced class in economics. The necessary number to form the class is anxious for it and has petitioned the faculty for the courses. The question now hinges whether or not time can be found for the work. All of the advanced elective classes speaks in the highest terms for the character of the work being done An effort is being made to secure an agreement among the fraternities to avoid rushing new men at the beginning of the term. All feel that an injustice is being done by the present method. The new men suffer by it in that their work is interfered with and they sometimes find themselves in uncongenial company after they have so hastily joined a fraternity. The fraternities also suffer in the same way, so that it would seem the scheme, if carried would prove a benefit to all. Each fraternity has selected a representative to meet and formulate a basis of agreement

Hold Meetings at Earlham.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. RICHMOND, Ind., Sept. 20.-The first meeting of the Ionian Literary Society was held at Earlham College last night. The attendance of young men was large and much interest was manifested. The only business was the election of officers, which resulted as follows: President, E. Ratcliff: vice president, Harry Bowen; recording secretary, Russel Wright; librarian, Morris Dillion; marshal, John Clark; critic, E. Trester; vice critic, W. Painter. The following positions were filled on the Earlhamite staff: associate editor, Clyde Kennedy; business manager, Isaac Woodard; assistant business manager, Walter Wilson; personal and local editors, Martin Kirk and S. Hobbs; exchange editor, W. Allee; alumni editor, E. E. Floyd.

Phoenix, the young women's organization, began its work last night with a membership of fifty-four. The following are the officers chosen: President, Elizabeth Hanson; vice president, Olive Hedges; recording secretary, Mae Simpson; corresponding secretary, Gertrude Wiltsie; librarian, Ingreed Jestin; marshal, Deborah Edwards; vice marshal, Inez Green; critic, Louise chairman executive committee, Josephine Evans. Also the vacant positions were filled on the Earlhamite staff: Associate editor, Mary Spray; assistant business manager, Ethleen Coppock; local editors, Nellie Davis and Gorgia Hiatt; alumni editor, Mabel Roberts; exchange editor, Eliz-

'VARSITY ALUMNI GAME.

De Pauw's First Game Will Be Played To-Morrow.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. GREENCASTLE, Ind., Sept. 20.-De Pauw's football season will be opened Monday with the now annual 'Varsity-Alumni game, that this year promises to be a contest of the most exciting character. The alumni team is under the management of Albert Weik, one of the most noted of De Pauw's athletes, and the places will be taken by Gavin, Tulier, Ruick, Haynes, J. Brown, S. Brown, Lockridge, Sandy, Mitchell, Williams, with other alumni as substitutes. The 'Varsity line has not yet been arranged, and probably will not be until after the game, as the men will be tried in different positions, and a number of men who are now substitutes will also be tried to get the best material for future work. Coach Henry has taken hold of the work with a vim and has out one of the biggest gangs of candidates that the university has had, and all are working hard for places has been no objection whatever from the students in connection with the matriculation extra fee of $1 per term for athletic expenses, and the money thus supplied furnishes funds to meet expenses that have heretofore caused the athletic association considerable embarrassment.

Practice at Indiana University.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Sept. 20 .- Football practice yesterday afternoon was very satisfactory, and the men showed up in fine spirits. The outlook for a good, strong team is getting brighter, as the material is developing in good shape. Johnson and Killen give promise of star qualities. They have both done much work on the gridiron. and seem at home most any place. At present they are trying for quarter. Johnson is a good sprinter and a fast man with the ball. It is thought that most of the old 'varsity men will report early next week and immediately get down to work. They have been a little late in arriving on account of Coach Horne's absence, but he is here now and the men are very eager for practice work. It may hustle the team a little within the next two weeks to get in shape to meet the Rose Polytechnics, of Terre Haute, the first game of the season, but with the interest now shown no time will be lost in fully preparing for the first game. Nothing has been settled definitely as to the successor of Captain Smith, who has been obliged to resign. Zora Clev-enger still seems the best man in view and will very likely be unanimously chosen for this place, since his experience and pre-vious record as an all-round athlete place him first among his fellows.

The Athletic Association has one or two coaches for this year, but are not settled as yet on any one in particular. It will reach a decision in the next two or three

An Endowment Fund of $25,000.

FAIRMOUNT, Ind., Sept. 20 .- At the quarterly meeting of the Society of Friends, held here to-day, a movement was put on foot which will be of much importance to the Fairmount Academy, a preparatory school maintained by the churches of this district. The plan of a $20,000 endowment fund was launched and received the official sanction of the meeting. A call was made at once for subscriptions and $8,000 was pledged, while Rev. E. O. Ellis, of Richmond, a former pastor here and exprincipal of the school, stated that many large pledges had been made which were not announced in the meeting to-day. It was not intended to try to raise the money to-day, but to place the matter before the membership. The academy trustees are very much elated over the plan and prospects, and state that there is no doubt but what the full amount will be pledged in a very short time, as many of the most prominent and wealthy men in this part of the country are leading members of the Friends Church and are very liberal. A soliciting committee of three was appointed to canvas the membership and report back to the next meeting of the church council, which will be held three months hence.

Football Game at Fairmount.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. FAIRMOUNT, Ind., Sept. 20 .- The Fairmount Academy and Wabash High School football teams opened the season here today with a large crowd present. It was one of the best contests ever witnessed here and was particularly free from slugging and brutal work, although the play was fierce and fast at all times. The teams and Adams is in Purdue, but it is believed | were about evenly matched as to weight, and neither side was able to score. Six new men are on the academy team this year. Dr. J. P. THE GRIDIRON SEASON WILL OPEN IN INDIANA THIS WEEK.

Indianapolis Teams Play First Games Next Saturday-Indiana Schedules -Football Notes.

The regular football season will open this week, nearly all the big colleges having games scheduled for next Saturday. Indiana colleges will have their first games on that day and the two Indianapolis high school teams will also inaugurate the season next Saturday. Shortridge will play its first game at Greencastle with De Pauw en will go to Richmond to meet Earlham.

The two high school teams have been practicing for over a week. Shortridge was the first to take to the field, but the early training only helped the boys to get hardened for the real work that began last week. Beginning to-morrow the candidates for both teams will settle down to regular practice and will play against second elevens. It requires this sort of practice to place the teams in good condition and no time will be lost this week to select players for the reglular eleven and get in shape The schedules of the Indiana colleges and

The Furniture at Windsor Castle.

London News. The furniture of Windsor Castle, it has been noticed by recent visitors, has had the covers removed which used to cloak its variegated beauty, and may now be seen in all its splendor. The change is noticed by some at least of the houseviwes who have visited the castle with mixed feelings. It is gratifying to the curiosity to see the real tapestry and other magnificence, but at the same time, "the old Queen was so care-

ing. "These chairs won't last long at this rate," is their verdict, "with all the dust that's brought in here every day." The splendor of the furniture is easily recognized, but it is to be feared that many of the far more valuable treasures of the castle are but little appreciated by many of those who throng to see the rooms. The pictures are a magnificent collection, comprising works by the great masters of the world-among them that Guido whom the connection with the management of the visits of the public is that no attempts are made to extract tips from the parties that are "shown around," a fact due, we believe, to the King's express desire.

Shooter Gilbert Won.

DETROIT, Sept. 20 .- Jack Parker's shoot at Grosse Point closed to-day with a pretty exhibition, said to be a world's record-breaker, in which Fred Gilbert, of Spirit up to now it has not been a great success. Lake, Ia., captured the Gilman & Barnes trophy. It was a fifteen-bird event with Bengal Coal Company, namely, cheapening five entries. All five shot fifteen birds straight and then started shooting "miss and out." Gilbert and H. Bates, of Canada, each, shot ninety-four birds straight. Gilbert standing at thirty-two yards Bates at thirty-one. Gilbert then shot his ninety-fifth bird and Bates missed. The other entries were: Jack Parker and Tolsma, of Detroit, and Russell Klein, of Spirit Lake, Ia.

CRAP SHOOTERS CAUGHT.

Colored Men Rounded Up in an Empty House.

An empty house at No. 641 North Blackford street presented signs of life last night at midnight when Sergeant Boylan, with several patrolmen, surrounded the place and found several colored men inside shooting craps. The negroes, seeing the officers, tried for exits. Windows that would permit but the passage of one body were tried vainly. Cries of "Git out!" could be heard on all sides, but at every point the officers stood guard. When the house had been cleared it was found that six men had been playing at dice. The police succeeded in getting part of the money and dice as evidence. A small piece of carpet was also taken off the floor.
